I have tried to put mainly native plants here, switchgrasses and goldenrods and Baptisia, and then this is called a cut plant. Jennifer Sherlock Hilton, and 635 Deepdene Road. From the upstairs room of my daughter, Sylvie, this is the trumpet vine that she overlooks her window. And from the kitchen, you have these big trumpets and the hummingbirds come right...

You could get this closeup view of them. It's really amazing. They're like little jewels and they move so fast and once in a while they'll land on one of these branches and you get to see them still, which is something. We might see one, if we sit here. I have just started my own landscape business which is centering on native plants. It's called Blue Stem Gardens and it's really good work. I love it. Oh, hummingbird. You see it? There he goes. Right there. There he goes.

Out of the Blocks is supported by PRX and produced with grant funding from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Cohen Opportunity Fund, The Hoffberger Foundation, Patricia and Mark Joseph, The Shelter Foundation, The Kenneth S Battye Charitable Trust, The Sana and Andy Brooks Family Fund, The Muse Web Foundation, and the William G.
